

They Should Have Shut Down the Streets

A.C. Newman

They should have shut down all the streets
'cause that innocent kid shouldn't been there.
But not a single emphasis, all the school is closed
And the roads we drove on all night,
Lot of people kept in hand a cry
That went on for miles and miles and miles and miles and miles.

They should have shot down all the streets
All the paper is plastered with tributes.
We should've ask for privacy that we understand
If it's something to share their pain,
We would ask to grieve this in our mind way
And they should have asked again and again and again.

They should have shut down all the streets
Of the Brooklyn's pile of the doorstep.
The pages filled with crayon hearts
That are second great,
Classic made a rescue that day
Because the teacher had to give them some small way
And I would have many ways to understand.

They should have shut down all the streets.
