

...in Anything Done Under The Sun

A Life Once Lost

With a simple blink of an eye
The trupeter stops
He has run out of breath
He dtops to his knees
To regain his breath
Panting and gasping for as much air
As he can fit into his tired lungs
He risses to his feet
With tears in his eyes
He has failed