Absynthe Minded

You can't know everything.
I don't know if it's worth it
I won't know if it's not.

I don't judge anyone,
I want to know what's on your mind.

Ever since that day when,
You looked at me that way and
You cracked a smile.
I got so warm inside.
And I knew just what to do.

So I went underground
Just hanging around.
I wouldn't call it hiding
I'd call it ripening, nevermind.

Oh do you remember,
oh do you recall?
What we have is paramount
to anything at all.

I'm so glad to see you.
I've been low.
Escaped from the treadmill,
The moment I got your call.

Well I was paralyzed,
when the truth sunk in.
I saw it in a Cronenberg movie,
the explosion of a head.

But I'm not understood,
it will be concluded,
That something usefull and profound was couched underneath.

So I went underground,
I wouldn't call it hiding
I'd call it ripening, nevermind

Oh do you remember,
oh do you recall?
What we have is paramount
to anything at all.

I'm so glad to see you.
I've been low
I escaped from the treadmill,
The moment I got your call.
