Tipping The Scales

Across The Sun

Here is a message For all who seek to take advantage Of kindness gravely mistaken for weakness Things are not always as they seem Take nothing for granted

Be mindful and restrain Such foolish ways There's no debating reprimand Assures your numbered days Attempt to analyze what lies inside The ones you seek to overcome Just might enrich your life

You have been warned Pretentious action could unleash a force Far beyond the boundaries of comprehension Aggravating these limits Only beckons the beast To make itself known

Banishing hate from whence it came Restoring order to its place Making known tolerance was tested Feeble attempts are rejected

To underestimate your fellow man Is a fools errand Fueled by arrogance and insecurity Surely you will falter

So thinking twice Before disrupting the balance Is advised for the livelihood Of all that's involved For tipping scales with wounded souls Could help you meet the end