

Midnight Apocalypse

Ador Dorath

It was so near, I saw the burning ground open... And the dead bodies coming to life. So much I wanted it to be true. To see the world perish... The very end of our times.

So long I have been waiting... That I have convinced myself to see it happen. The beginning of the end. The burning rain and the world eaten up by flames.

I was so close; yes the world will be destroyed by fire. The Knight, the Death and the Devil were approaching... On the burning horizon. There was a light in their eyes, as the comet was falling.

No, there is no end, life goes on. Immortal Life goes on.

So long I have been waiting... That I have convinced myself to see it happen. The beginning of the end.

Too many prophecies mistaken. I try to settle it again. Too many details unspoken.

I try to foresee the day. When darkness is coming... In Midnight Apocalypse.

Too many prophecies mistaken. I try to settle it again.

No, there is no end, life goes on. Immortal Life goes on.

Too many details unspoken. I try to foresee the day. When darkness is coming... In Midnight Apocalypse.
