

Along The Line

Akeboshi

Along the line on the wall linking to your heart does it end if I pull the plug how true in words

Among the rooftop stains buds sprout from the dust
I know you can live without me whistle in the breeze

winding to the top vines climb madly city lights sadly reality comes back to me

Is it really me writing this to you
Is it the real you sending this to me

You said you're leaving this country soon I know it doesn't matter to us but somehow I feel so sad today It's not about you going away

Among the rooftop trees sky is wet & grey
I know you can live without me
whispers in the breeze

maybe it's the real but only a part of me Is it the real you writing this to me maybe it's all lies but it's alright
