

Pony's O.G.

Akron/Family

I followed you down to the river and I was afraid, I was afraid for my life
The river came down from the heavens and it took me to the edge of the sky

In the shadow you gave me your rainbow it filled the space, the space of my mind
All the riddles that you had told me, they unraveled like a snake in the sun

Oh the green green of the river it had showed me what would come
And the lightning it held me, on the tip of my tongue

I could not believe it the sound it shook me with a whisper and hum
And love lifted every thing from the ground and into the sun