Keelhauled

Alestorm

My friends I stand before you To tell a truth most dire There lurks a traitor in our midst Who hath invoked the captain's ire

He don't deserve no mercy We ought to shoot him with a gun But I am not an evil man So first let's have a little fun

We'll tie that scoundrel to a rope And throw him overboard Drag him underneath the ship A terrifying deadly trip

Keelhaul that filthy landlubber Send him down to the depths below Make that bastard walk the plank With a bottle of rum and a yo ho ho

I will not say what he has done His sins are far too grave to tell It's not my place to judge a man But for them he will burn in hell

The sharks will dine upon his flesh And Davy Jones will have his soul Take his money and his hat He won't need them where he's gonna go

But first lets tie him to a rope And throw him overboard Drag him underneath the ship A terrifying deadly trip
