

Here Right Now

Alex Day

We saw the sun rise across the world, you
Smiled and held my hand
There will be others just like it, sure
But none that felt like that

You made the same cup of tea
I asked for every other day
But when you looked back at me
I knew I'd never be the same

We might not make it to tomorrow
But we do our best with what we have
I never thought I'd be beside you
You hold me up when I can't stand

And if there's really no tomorrow
I will be sure to be there to watch
The sun go down
I don't really need tomorrow
If you're here right now

We talked about all the places
We could travel to one day
We fell asleep around lunch time

With the sunshine on our face
We ate a tub full of ice cream, and you
Helped me buy the pool
I can have every day like this, just
As long as I have you

We might not make it to tomorrow
We do our best with what we have
I never thought I'd be around you
You hold me up when I can't stand
And if there's really no tomorrow
I will be fine, enjoying the wonder I have found

I don't really need tomorrow
If you're here right now
And if there's really no tomorrow
I will be sure to be there to watch
The sun go down

I don't really need tomorrow
If you're here right now
