

Here's To Letting Go

Alex Day

You're on my mind
It's been a while
Have you been keeping all my secrets
I fell in love, can you believe it
Am I out of line
It's been a while
Did you ever make it out of London
Did you settle down with some new lover

You used to be how I started my mornings and ended my nights
I can't remember your face anymore and I think that that's fine
Now you're gone, that's the way everything moves on
And on it goes
So here's to letting go

You could be kind
Most of the time
You would surprise me on my doorstep
Making each day the better for it
And we were worthwhile
After it all
We didn't waste our time together
Knowing we fell apart to get there

You used to be how I started my mornings and ended my nights
I can't remember your face anymore and I think that that's fine
Now you're gone, that's the way everything moves on
And on it goes
So here's to letting go

I don't think about you like I used to do
If you saw me now you'd understand what I went through Infatuated
Girl you made me
Now I'm feeling so brand new
I hope you do too

Now you're gone
That's the way everything moves on
And on it goes
So here's to letting