(No More) Love at Your Convenience

Alice Cooper

Your childish game is over now Lost your power over night some how Better see it ain't gonna be like it used to be

No more love at your convenience No more love at your command No more love at your convenience Lots of time late at night, I really needed you

I'm telling you tonight's the night Close your mouth, turn off the light Pull me babe, pull me down closer on you

No more love at your convenience No more love at your command No more love at your convenience Lots of time late at night, I really needed you I really needed you, I really needed you

No more love at your convenience No more love at your command No more love at your convenience

Quit your tears and dry your eyes You know I hate to see you cry Don't you see things gotta be what they got to

No more love at your convenience No more love at your convenience No more love at your convenience

No more love at your convenience No more love at your convenience No more love at your convenience
