And maybe I'll catch fire.

This house is full of ears,
But I can't talk to anyone.
They've heard this one a thousand times.
Most exciting thing I do,
Hang half way out a third floor window,
Maybe throw lit cigarettes down.

All that evil shit's not hard to find. I guess I only claim to be nice.

This house is full of eyes,
But I can't look at anyone.
They've seen this face a thousand times.
Most relaxing thing I do,
Hang half way out a third floor window,
And look at rocks if I fall out.

Well maybe I'll fall hard.

Something tough to break me,

Something sharp to rip into my insides and bleed out all that p ain.

Sorry I don't even know your name.

I guess for me it's easy this way.

Maybe I'll catch fire.

Something warm to hold me,

Something pure to burn away the darkness that hides inside my m ind.

All that evil shit's not hard to find.
