

Kudzu

Amanda Shires

A star shower falling over the land and off into the sea
It's got nothing, oh nothing on you and me
An ocean wave rolling into the beach
Carrying shells like you've never seen
Of course they're tokens and they're meant just for this moment
All the dogwood and mimosa are blooming for you
I even found your name spelled out in Kudzu
That's what you do in love

The windows of your eyes are so clean reflecting mine
I know you can see we belong together
And it's exactly like they say
The clouds part and there's no place you'd rather be
Than in love, believe in love

And it's true all the flowers sigh
And the birds sing along your side
And you never really get it 'til it's happening to you
I don't know where you found that key
I thought it was lost on some surface street
This heart's been waiting, oh waiting to start just for you.

And it's true all the flowers sigh
And the birds sing along your side
And you never really get it 'til it's happening to you
