

Where Love is a Lie

American Hi-Fi

It's too late
Love's in the past
Burned out with your last cigarette
So long now
Follow the sun
And the morning will come, you'll forget
But way down deep, you'll never sleep
You'll always remember
Her high wire grace, her smiling face
And a kiss like December

When the sky
Falls like the sunsets goodbye
And the will to pretend in you dies
You remember the light in her eyes
And how you left it all behind.
When love is a lie.

And it goes on
Year after year
The names stay the same, you move on.
And you break down
Day after day
Faith was just here and it's gone.
And soon you'll see, you're never free
You'll always remember
Her high wire grace, her smiling face
And a kiss like December

When the sky
Falls like the sunsets goodbye
And the will to pretend in you dies
You remember the light in her eyes
And how you left it all behind.
When love is a lie.

It's too late
You've already crashed
Let go of your ghost from the past

When the sky
Falls like the sunsets goodbye
And the will to pretend in you dies
You remember the light in her eyes
When the sky
Falls like the sunsets goodbye
And the will to pretend in you dies
You remember the light in her eyes
And how you left it all behind.
When love is a lie.

It's too late
Love's in the past
Burned out with your last cigarette
