

I Know Better Now

Amy Grant

Some people always know the right thing to say
I don't really think I was born that way
And with the gift of charm, they're well endowed
I love to watch them float right through a crowd

I used to think it took a giggly girl
To win some fame in this mixed around world
But I know better now

One day I met a man who showed me love
There standing on His head was a snow white dove
And He said, "Once I came down to this mire for you
But I'm the Son of God, He's your Father too"

It wasn't long before my new walk began
Since I found Jesus, my life is in His hands

Now I have life, no one can take it from me
And I've a home above I'm waiting to see
There're many rooms in the House of the Lord
Why don't you come along and bring someone more?

I used to think it took a giggly girl
To win some fame in this mixed around world
But I know better now

I know better now, I know better now
I know better now, I know better now
I know better now, I know better now
I know better now

I know, I know, I know
I know better now