

Did I Ever

Andrew Allen

Had an apartment in the West End, you and I were best friends
Making love on the weekend, every day was the weekend, yeah
You were scared of airplanes, but you wanted to go to cool places

So you put on a brave face, held my hand, said you felt safe

I know you like your own time, you know I like to share mine
Maybe that's a hard line, I'd never would have thought that I'd
Be standing here confused, watching while I lose
Everything I thought I knew

There's so many things about you I remember
Your favorite pair of jeans, your dad's old sweater
How you get kind of sad in rainy weather
But I feel like I don't know you now, did I ever

There's so many things about you I remember
Your favorite pair of jeans, your dad's old sweater
How you get kind of sad in rainy weather
But I feel like I don't know you now, did I ever

But I feel like I don't know you now, did I ever

You say you're doing so well, it's funny 'cause I can't tell
I know I've been through hell, not that, you asked how I felt
I still have the photographs, years deep, remember how we used to laugh
Now you're trying to hide the past, new friends, new you, but you want half

What about the late nights? Dancing in the moonlight?
Promising you and I are gonna do life, I never would have thought that I'd
Be standing here confused, watching while I lose
Everything I thought I knew

There's so many things about you I remember
Your favorite pair of jeans, your dad's old sweater
How you get kind of sad in rainy weather
But I feel like I don't know you now, did I ever

There's so many things about you I remember
Your favorite pair of jeans, your dad's old sweater
How you get kind of sad in rainy weather
But I feel like I don't know you now, did I ever

But I feel like I don't know you now, did I ever
