

Light in You

Andrew Allen

Somehow I'm worth your while
I get to hold you first thing in the morning
Then when I see you smile
Brighter than the new day that is dawning

It really makes me wonder, if this is real life
Not a dream or spell I'm under, with the way
The way that you make me feel like

In a crowded room, I'm the only one
When it's just us two, and the setting sun
There's a light in you, and everything that you do
Once again it seems you found a way
To make me love you even more, than I loved you yesterday

I figured I'd tell you why
I stay up some nights just to hear you breathing
With every day that goes by
You're the one and only I believe in

If you'll agree to have me, each day of your life
I'll try to make you happy, like the way
The way that you make me feel like

In a crowded room, I'm the only one
When it's just us two, and the setting sun
There's a light in you, and everything that you do
Once again it seems you found a way
To make me love you even more, than I loved you yesterday

Ooooo

In a crowded room, I'm the only one
When it's just us two, and the setting sun
There's a light in you, and everything that you do
Once again it seems you found a way
To make me love you even more, than I loved you yesterday

Ooooo

And I love you even more, than I loved you yesterday
