

Time

Andrew Allen

I need time
I need time, time, time
Just to keep you on my mind, yeah, I need time
And I need love
Yeah, I need love, love, love
Just a little bit's enough, but I need love
'Cause when I'm talking to my grandkids at the age of 82
I'll tell them 'bout the times that I loved you

And I need truth
Yeah, I need truth, truth, truth
Not a single lie will do, oh, I need truth
And I need friends
Yeah, I need friends, friends, friends
The kind you trust right 'til the end, oh, I need friends
'Cause when I'm talking to my grandkids at the age of 83
I'll tell them what my true friends meant to me
Oh, oh, oh
Oh, oh, oh
Oh, oh, oh, oh

I need to feel
I need to feel, feel, feel
If I'm gone, and know it's real, I need to feel
And I need pain
Yeah, I need pain, pain, pain
There's always sunshine after rain, so I need pain
And when I'm talking to my grandkids at the age of 85
I'll tell them they'll feel pain, but they'll survive
Oh, oh, oh
Oh, oh, oh
Oh, oh, oh, oh

I need you
I need you, you, you
I always have, and that's the truth, I need you
'Cause you're the one
You're my moonlight, you're my sun
You're my home, and all I love, you're the one
And when I'm talking to our grandkids, I'll be telling them the truth
If you find true love, and let it go, you lose
I know the best things in my life are 'cause of you
I know the best things in my life are 'cause of you
