Angels & Airwaves

Angel Haze

If you're contemplating suicide, this is for you See this is for the moments when ya alone and with emotion So fucking bold leaves you mentally frozen When ya cold and alone heart open and broken When that loves outta sight and your hearts into focus When ya floating in oceans hopeless soaking in misery Headphones on you link yourself with the synergy When you watch your mind and ya lost in a song, be strong You are not alone, I just want you to know you are not alone

There's angels in the airwaves tonight And I've been running all of my life And I need you to stay, I need you to stay Angels in the airwaves tonight

This for all the moments when your weakness is your cloak And people you love most just beat you to a pulp When you cut open your wrist looking for loving in the slits But find nothing but self hate cause nothing exists See this for all the moments when they don't understand And they ain't where you stand And they can't comprehend They just staring from the outside And then they judging your in, when they Kick you and beat you and hurt you then leave you Laying on the ground like you half of they equal Gladly defeat you then laugh to your face When you feel all alone, when ya so outta place They can't relate to this pain They don't feel how I feel

So don't get lost tonight Never let the ignorance cost ya life You can make it, keep ya fingers crossed tonight Put your headphones on and turn off the lights

When the girl that you love won't look in your direction When the guy you like adds you to his fucking collection When you all dressed in black And they whisper and snicker And they make you feel wrong for being so different This for everybody who knows what it is To feel like nothing but a memory that won't be relived That distant fucking shit that everyone forgets The words on the tip of tongues that gets swallowed with the spit See I know how it feels I've been there before I had head in my hands and my heart on the floor I've been worthless and shattered I've been nothing to people I know what it is to have to force them to see you

[Bridge 2} I've been running now I'm outta here today I've been running now Questioning my faith (2x) There's angels in the...

For when you feel so invisible you're not even sure you exist So you cut yourself open just to see if you real You numb yourself with drugs just to hide what you feel You drink the washed up pain in hopes of rejecting it afterwards You live everyday wishing you could rewind your life backwards Because you wanna figure out where the fuck you went wrong Cause everything in your world ain't been right for so long I know how it feels So this is for you If you're thinking it now If you're wanting to die If you're thinking it out You are so much more than you are in this moment You never know how great you can be Don't give up on you I didn't give up on me