Now I know that nothing's get me high Scorched the land to find a man Even lost the will to lie Pluck out every artery Left my heart to die

I made my bed
So I can lie on it
So I can cry on it
Now i'm wondering why
I made this bed

Cameras hidden in my ceiling fan Excuse me but where was you, god That long hot afternoon Drag my head across the floor Now i'm living dead

And I made my bed So I can sleep on it So I can weep on it Now I'm wondering why I made this bed

And the cold dew's stinging
There's vultures singing
I caught a vision of my death
But there is
One sweet poison i'm immune to
Don't wake me
'Cause my dreaming's seeming true

I made my bed
So I can lie on it
So I can cry on it
Now i'm wondering why

I made this bed
So I can sleep on it
So I can weep on it
Now I'm wondering why
I made this bed
