

Fragile

Anna Graceman

Porcelain, rain on skin
Little dandelions blowing in the wind
Crystal ball, scared to fall
You bumped into me and now I feel it all

I wasn't always like this
Living with my heart in the open
I wasn't always like this
But I'm starting to notice

That I'm fragile
And I'm breaking into pieces every time you're close to me
I come unraveled
Just like that faded sweater that you wore the day I met you
I am fragile
I guess I never knew until you walked into the room
But now I'm...

Paper thin, Stumbling
My heart is tripping every time I catch a glimpse
Butterflies, scared of heights
But I forget about it cause the view is nice

I wasn't always like this
Living with my heart in the open
I wasn't always like this
But I'm starting to notice

That I'm fragile
And I'm breaking into pieces every time you're close to me
I come unraveled
Just like that faded sweater that you wore the day I met you
I am fragile
I guess I never knew until you walked into the room
Ohh

I wanna know you
I wanna taste you
I wanna hold you
But I'm afraid to
I wanna know you
I wanna taste you
I wanna hold you
But I'm afraid to

Cause I'm fragile
And I'm breaking into pieces every time you're close to me
I come unraveled
Just like that faded sweater that you wore the day I met you
I am fragile
I guess I never knew until you walked into the room
But now I'm fragile