

If I Ever See You Again

Anne Murray

If I ever see you again
I'll tell you what a fool I've been
I'll say the things I should have then
If I ever see you again

I remember soft nights listening to your sighs
And the light of your eyes on me
I know I should have told you just how much I love you
Now I only get to in dreams

If I ever see you again
I'll tell you what a fool I've been
I'll say the things I should have then
If I ever see you again

I'm haunted by the places everywhere are traces Familiar names and faces we've known
You know it isn't easy living with a memory
All the love that's in me is gone

If I ever see you again
I'll tell you what a fool I've been
I'll say the things I should have then
If I ever see you again
If I ever see you again
