

What's Wrong

Annisokay

We are struggling we are striving
In the search for a place to stay
There is no guarantee of surviving
We're putting ourselves in harms way
Tell me what's wrong with everybody today?
Suffer, losses and dealing with human fears
It is neither liveable nor acceptable over years

We're all seekers
On the run for love on the run for hope
We're all seekers always searching for a life worth living

We are troubling
We're disturbing
In the search for a place to stay
There is no guarantee of surviving
Dreams and reality like night and day
Tell me what's wrong with everybody today
A distress signal this time for all humankind
We are about to crash and burn
We are on our own, there's no return

We are all searching for a life worth living
They irritate. They infuriate. They inflame. They chafe.
You are not alone
We may start to take time and take part
For what may be changed
We may start to take time and take part
Defeat inertia for a change
