

Always Done What You Say

Aquilo

You've been talking, talking, telling everybody
And times like this will never, never go away
Laying on my back, I don't mean anything
Expressing what you think you can't say
I'm not cold, I'm not easily offended
There's never enough of me for you to spin it round

And 'cause I know that you've been here before
I know that you've been here before
It's all on you in a way
I've always done what you say

You were young, and you were so God damn excited
Telling lies, you never thought would come to bite you
But darling, blood is thicker than you think it is
Take it on the chin and turn around
And something tells me you've been waiting way too long
Fighting off the demons from another song
You're held to the floor with your own thoughts
I never asked you to stay

'Cause I know that you've been here before
I know that you've been here before
It's all on you in a way
I've always done what you say

Bright-eyed sunshine
Running round my head again
It's running round my head again
This white-eyed snakebite
Running round my head again
It's running round my head

'Cause I know that you've been here before
I know that you've been here before
It's all on you in a way
I've always done what you say

'Cause I know that you've been here before
I know that you've been here before
It's all on you in a way
I've always done what you say

'Cause I know that you've been here before
I know that you've been here before
It's all on you in a way
I've always done what you say
