

I'll Dip

Aretha Franklin

And it hurts too much to stay...

Sometimes it takes time to get it right
When did I wonder into love with hindsight
And the feeling turns to bad
I've always been devoted to you
Don't want to give up but I'm losing myself
Somewhere between our love

And it hurts too much to stay
Because all of the things
Has brought all of these feelings
Has brought all of this pain
And it all stays the same
I'll dip, I'll pack my bags and go

My heart is aching
It sings everyday
To many emotions that won't go away
I'm afraid to leave you
Oh baby can't sleep at night
And I'm lonely all day
Said I'll love you forever
But I'm on my way
Oh yeah
Got to move on with me love, yeah

And it hurts too much stay
Because all of the things
Has brought all of these feelings
Has brought all of this pain
And it all stays the same
I'll dip; I'll pack my bags and go
And it hurts too much stay
Because all of the things
Has brought all of these feelings
Has brought all of this pain
And it all stays the same
I'll dip; I'll pack my bags and go

Should have seen it coming before now
I'm yet to see if I can find my own space baby
Nothing else falls so long
I've made up my mind
I've made up my way

And it hurts too much stay
Because all of the things
Has brought all of these feelings
Has brought all of this pain
And it all stays the same
I'll dip; I'll pack my bags and go
(Repeat till fade)
