

Ashes

Arrows to Athens

A star it falls,
A silhouette.
The sound it flies,
Without a breath.
Just give me one more reason to hold on.
Just a night-
While a second stop before our eyes-
A second chance could save us.

'Cause I believe that something
Will take the place of love.
After everything we've lost-
From a flame that burned-
All that's left for us
Are the ashes.

Before the sky was painted red,
And the setting sun stole our innocence.
We clearly saw the treason in the fall.
Not tonight-
Not a second's left before goodbye.

'Cause I believe that something
Will take the place of love.
After everything we've lost-
From a flame that burned-
All that's left for us
Are the ashes.

Don't pretend that it's a dream-
Give it up.
All the fire we could bleed is not enough.

'Cause I believe that something
Will take the place of love.
After everything we've lost-
From a flame that burned-
All that's left for us-
And all that's left for us
Are the ashes-
Are the ashes.
