

The Silence

Arrows to Athens

What is this
What is this that made us wonder who we are?
Couldn't face what we had done, and so we covered up the scars
And now we hope, but our hope is buried underneath at night
Can't escape, and the silence holds us captive with this lie

And it all comes back to this
It was an ordinary moment
Tore the sky and cut us open
And now I cannot forgive or forget what we have done
The silence has become the end of us

We believed that keeping quiet was the only way to find
Innocence to get us back to who we were before that night yeah

And it all comes back to this
It was an ordinary moment
Tore the sky and cut us open
And now I cannot forgive or forget what we have done
The silence has become the end of us

Now pray for the day when the truth will make us pay for this
Do you believe that the silence can erase the memory?

And it all comes back to this
It was an ordinary moment
Tore the sky and cut us open
And now I cannot forgive or forget what we have done
The silence has become the end of us
The silence has become the end of us

Yeah, yeah
Yeah, yeah