Be cast aside for crimes that were pure, only to find you're em pty handed.

Once more and I ... I'll be a believer of the truth in wine.

You can't tell me anymore, these understatements will surround me with ivory and lore.

I'm fixed, ready to stand surrounded.

Breath in these flames, we'll rise from the ground and ...

Once more my crimes were pure
We all end up empty handed
Once more and I'll be a believer still empty handed

(No more!) Ridiculed for always asking, why? (No more!) Ridiculed for always asking, why?

We appose every right.

Can we ingest the night and hang it on our hopes?

Why hang it on everything?
Why waste it on anything?
Why hang it on everything?
Just watch we're both becoming empty handed.
