

Darkness Reflected

As Autumn Calls

A great darkness fell
Bringing forth great sorrow
The light slowly fades
Draping the world in shadow
A darkness beyond dark
Impenetrable and bleak
Like a being of its own
In silence gently seeps

Reflections
Of my soul
Casting forth
Misery and woe
The world
A bleak mirror
A gateway
Into my regret

It's suffocates all life
As it paints the landscape dead
It steals away my sight
And clouds my heavy head
Deeper through the darkness
My dismal path weaves
If I don't find my way
This will surely kill me

Reflections
Of my soul
Casting forth
Misery and woe
The world
A bleak mirror
A gateway
Into my regret

The desolate creations of my failing mind
The profound yearning
of my desperate soul
Forlorn to wander in solitude
Endlessly searching for an end to this journey

As hope abandons me
I am content to close my eyes
My body falls numb and broken
And my soul silently cries
I glimpse through the trees
To find the image of you
Distorted and fading
And I realize that I'm not far