

A Breath of Water

As Cities Burn

i would be one of them and wouldn't feel so alone currents grind and scales shine upon a watery way down shorelines are far from here but i don't need them at all just our hands and our eyes as we walk upon the waterline and how could i have looked away from you to watch the divers dive to watch the divers die if i could just breathe water

but i was never one for fitting in because i know i'm still a world away from home this abyss, it's endless

(2x)

across sea tops to ocean shores i'm not exactly sure where we're headed but i could care less because i am weightless

(2x)

if i could just breathe water
