

How Could It Feel Like This

Ashent

Gazing into a stormy sky tonight
Visions of you still captivate my mind
I softly say a prayer for some guiding light Assuring peace is speaks to me the words I long to find Waiting for the day when tears fade away
A love that's left here by the sands of time

I always remember the day we met
The first time I touched your lips
How could it feel like this?
The time was stolen from our hands
without a trace
I'm on my own, a fragile heart
searching for a road back home again
Barefooted on the shore of pain
I still remember hearing you were gone never more to touch your face

I try to focus but the light is getting dim
A faded picture of a stolen kiss
Waiting for the day when tears fade away

I always remember the day we met
The first time I touched your lips
How could it feel like this?
The time was stolen from our hands
without a trace
I'm on my own, a fragile heart
searching for a road back home again
Barefooted on the shore of pain
I still remember hearing you were gone...
again