

The Resonance of Life

Ashent

And you devoured every breath as it was your last endeavor
Lying in the circles of emptiness of painful words
What do you believe you'll find beyond?
Like velvet, you say, stained we are Light and ephemeral sometimes we trudge
As children embracing what's now been undone
We're left gazing above for a brand new vision

I am the resonance of life
The sign of what's left behind
The meaning lost in the deafening silence
I'm the resonance of life
I'm the wrong turned right
The sign of what's left behind
The meaning lost in the deafening silence
An empty soul filled with evanescence

Chasing the last vertigo my heart's imploring the peace I need to find again
Just like children embracing what's now been undone

I am the resonance of life
The sign of what's left behind
The meaning lost in the deafening silence
I'm the resonance of life
I'm the wrong turned right
The sign of what's left behind
The meaning lost in the deafening silence
An empty soul filled with evanescence
