

Over Our Heads

Asher Lane

I'm lying here with you
Like a hundred times before
While our past and our clothes
Are scattered on the floor
Something is different
About the look on your face
I see it in your eyes
Something has changed

Somehow it went wrong
Somewhere I passed out
Is it just too late for me
To figure out
Refrain:
My life is unchained
Cause everything that we were
Is breaking away
You should have known
I should have said
Something to stop this world
From getting over our heads

Everything is different
When I open the door
I turn on the TV
But I don't know what for
It just doesn't feel like coming back home
No, it doesn't feel like coming back home

Somehow it went wrong
Somewhere I passed out
Is it just too late for me
To figure out

My life is unchained
Cause everything that we were
Is breaking away
You should have known
I should have said
Something to stop this world
From getting over our heads
Over our heads
Over our heads
Over our heads
My life is unchained
Cause everything that we were
Is breaking away
You should have known
I should have said
Over our heads
Over our heads
