The Man Who Came To Stay

Babyshambles

There's a man who came to stay
The boy he replaced, disappeared without a trace...
Stole all my songs and my style away
No-one would say what they wanted to say
So he was king for a day..
If you sail into the sun
Beware the eyes of green
And if the whole room tells you 'you are the one'
I defy you not to believe them, my son...

There's a man who came to stay...

Never showing on time

Out of his mind, diddly doo doo dine

Every single gig I play

Something's not right inside

Paranoia and pride, nowhere to hide...

If you sail into the sun, la la la la lala
Beware the eyes of green
And if the whole world tells you 'you are the one'
You must be hearing those voices again my son

If you sail into the sun Please beware the eyes of green And if it's all too much for you my son