

We Got Lost In Winter

Backseat Goodbye

Sunlight's screaming your name again
Why won't you grace it with your presence?
Is it that you're just not up for light?
Or more in the mood to just forget what I said?
She loves in half an hour spans
Dreams up winds that could sink the ocean
And on a good you might see her smile
Hums words you've never before heard
My dear I'm thinking you should give up this disaster
Draw lines that cross out perfect pairs
Sing songs that echo through the stairs
I'm not one to say you're wearing thin
But love you're caveing, caveing in
Trap hearts in shallow sheltered sinks

Bleed them dry and use their red as ink
For the story you're writing for me
You said, "It's like nothing you've ever seen...
Like the time we got lost in the winter's leaves.
It'll take time to finish, but so you know, you mean so much to me."
... You mean so much to me
I tried stealing you the stars
But the heavens above wouldn't have it
Took pictures of passing cars
While you carved our names in the cement
I know we're not a familiar trend
But if needed I'd die for you tonight
