Well I just washed my car and I think it's gonna rain i'm not g onna quiver or complain, and I just smashed my hand on it's stu pid metal frame that's enough to drive us all insane. Nothing t o sort out and nothing to do right, always a thorn in my side a nd it's not right, so complicated we're tired and unpaid, tough to admit it accept it not my day. And now i'm just a target, I 'd bridge to word it so i'm just standing where I just don't kn ow, I know i'm not for you and I should be asking how should I stay asleep, or brave it now. Nothing to sort out and nothing t o do right, always a thorn in my side and it's not right, so co mplicated we're tired and unpaid tough, tough to admit it, acce pt it not my day.
