

Beautiful

Big Head Todd and the Monsters

The first time that I fell to pieces
I was strung out over the moon wanting you
I was confused by your shifting faces
By the changing key of your tune
Waiting for your call to be my mistress
My paramour, oh you'd be my own

You're still beautiful when you're wrong
Still so beautiful when you're wrong
You turn me on and now you're stringing me along
Still so beautiful
Oh, so beautiful

One day the laws of love and justice
Will bring you to the prison I call my home
You can't forget the past without getting busted
Now you have to find a way on your own
So now karma will be sneaking up behind you
And your sorry fate will ultimately find you

You're still beautiful when you're wrong
Still so beautiful when you're wrong
You turn me on and now you're stringing me along
You're so beautiful
Still so beautiful

Though she refuse to hear me may I
Telepathically remind the one
That I long for her as the sailors for the sea
Or the tall trees for the morning sun
Yeah, I wanna be your only one

Underneath every late night barrio door
I'll be passed out drunk the next time you find me
I'll be sure not to wander off too far girl
Won't be the last time that you blind me
You left me up a creek in a storm
Yes, I needed you and you were gone

You're still beautiful when you're wrong
Still so beautiful when you're wrong
You say you never meant to cause me any harm or confusion
So I'm leaving
Oh, this is my freedom song
So beautiful when you're wrong
