

Walk On

Billy Currington

You're a modern day miracle
Anything but a typical girl
Mona Lisa on a sidewalk stand
Superstar in a common man world
Nothing's been so beautiful

Wanna stop and ask your name
Take a picture of your pretty face
Shout to heaven, steal a kiss
Lay the world at your throne
I want to beg you to be mine for the rest of both our lives
But instead I catch my breath, shake my head, and I walk on

I know I've seen you somewhere before
In the mind behind door number 3
You're a prayer you're a gift from god
But there's a bridge I cannot cross
It seems you're a distant dream
I will never hold you

I wanna stop and ask your name
Take a picture of your pretty face
Shot to heaven, steal a kiss
Leave the world at your throne
I want to beg you to be mine for the rest of both our lives
But instead I catch my breath, shake my head, and I walk on

I put one foot in front of another
I walk on
Knowing there will never be another

I wanna stop and ask your name
Take a picture of your pretty face
Shout to heaven, steal a kiss
Lay the world at your throne
I wanna beg you to be mine for the rest of both our lives
But instead I catch my breath, shake my head, and I walk on
I walk on
