Time Flies

Billy Ray Cyrus

It's living in the moment today Got down on the floor and played with my little girl For a little while It's crazy how much she's grown

It seems last I looked, she was so small but she sure ain't now But she's around that age her first memories are made Oh, I remember being that young once I think it was yesterday

Time flies Blows by Feels like I've missed so many things

Time flies And sometimes God, I wish You'd clip its wings

Another day is winding down There you stand in that cotton gown The one you wore when we first made love Back when this was just a dream, no house, no kids

The only thing we had then was us And babe, I can't help but miss that now and then 'Cause all those old tomorrows Ain't coming back again

Time flies Blows by Feels like I've missed so many things

Time flies And sometimes God, I wish You'd clip its wings

Time flies God I, God, I wish You'd clip its wings God, why can't you clip its wings?

Time flies Time flies
