

When Home Calls

Birds of Tokyo

It's 10.35 I'm on the last flight out of Sydney
Three thousand miles a little more wine and then you
I'm on a plane with two hundred souls
I can't help but feel I'm alone
One thing in common we all hear the summon
When home calls

Home is you my love
Where my heart belongs
Time moves so slow
When I just want you love

I stare at my phone at pictures of you and our new born
I wonder if he knows that I missed his birthday this year
This trip away's been the hardest by far
I just want my feet on the ground
I know what's coming and I feel like running
When home calls

Home is you my love
Where my heart belongs
Time moves so slow
When I just want you love

I wait very night as my heart breaks
Thinking of you
I can't wait till I'm with you again

Home is you my love
Where my heart belongs
Time moves so slow
When I just want you

Home is you my love
Where my heart belongs
Time moves so slow
When I just want you
Home is you my love
