

Sunsets

Biting Elbows

A butterfly somewhere in the world
Swings it's wings and a beautiful girl
Enters my life, skipping small talk
I see the future, the cage is unlocked
There is a longing I'd like you shorten
She's speaking softly as she's closing the curtain
I'm always ready for whatever you want
I'm one of many, but I act nonchalant

Take our time together
Sing me a different tune
Waiting for the weather
I say I'll see you soon
The sun and the moon
They know I won't be back soon
They know I won't be back soon
Cause I'm on my own
No denying
You're dethroned
But not dying
Hold your head up high
If this kills ya
You're not meant to survive

I'll make you better
Said nobody ever
And if they did, well they were not too clever
The smarter ones, they get under your skin
And they change you from within
But then you're fucked when they don't stick around
They're not a piece of chewing gum
Once they got
No reason to stay
They are the sun at the end of your day

Take our time together
Sing me a different tune
Waiting for the weather
I say I'll see you soon
The soon and the moon
They know I won't be back soon
They know I won't be back soon
Cause I'm on my own
No denying
You're dethroned
But not dying
Hold your head up high
If this kills ya

A wicked rhetoric
Call me degenerate
Take me to your place
I'm dead like MySpace
