

No Matter Where You Go...

Blanche

You set yourself on fire
And then complained
When everybody stares
Who do you blame?

Another day, another drama
How can people be so cruel?
You're the victim once again
They won't play by your rules
Take your ball and run away from the truth

Every bridge you burned leaves another clue
But it can be proved
It's everybody else
Woah (2x)

You tried to look in windows
But it's quite clear
That every pane of glass for you is a mirror

Another day, another drama
How can people be so cruel?
You're the victim once again
They won't play by your rules
Take your ball and run away from the truth
Don't you know their conscience can never be fooled
That shadow follows you

No matter where you go
No matter what you say.