

I say I'm gonna call you and I don't,
I promise you I'll change, but I know deep down I won't.
The only thing I'll promise you is that I'm not in love with you,
My heart sings a different tune and you can't hit these notes.

You'll see everything is gonna be alright,
You'll see everything is gonna be alright.

So it seems I have no self-control, no.
Faster and further I'm falling down this rabbit hole.
I need to learn that I'm not invincible,
Before it's too late, it's already too late.

You'll see everything is gonna be alright,
You'll see everything is gonna be alright.

Alone is what my heart is, it's the only way it works.
And though it's sad we're parting, I love the way it hurts.
They always say they'll change for me, but baby it's a one-man show,
So let me go.

The drugs didn't work,
I didn't even flinch when he removed your shirt.
It's time to put my health first,
Ahead of my wealth first.

You'll see everything is gonna be alright,
You'll see everything is gonna be alright.
