

Man On The Street

Bob Dylan

G

harmonica:

G

I'll sing you a song, ain't very long,

Emi

'Bout an old man who never done wrong.

G

How he died nobody can say,

Emi

They found him dead in the street one day.

G

Well, the crowd, they gathered one fine morn,

Emi

At the man whose clothes 'n' shoes were torn.

G

There on the sidewalk he did lay,

Emi

They stopped 'n' stared 'n' walked their way.

G Emi

harmonica:

Well, the p'liceman come and he looked around,

"Get up, old man, or I'm a-takin' you down."

He jabbed him once with his billy club

And the old man then rolled off the curb.

Well, he jabbed him again and loudly said,

"Call the wagon; this man is dead."

The wagon come, they loaded him in,

I never saw the man again.

G Emi

harmonica:

I've sung you my song, it ain't very long,

'Bout an old man who never done wrong.

How he died no one can say,

They found him dead in the street one day.
