

Back in the Fire

Bobby Caldwell

Some people gotta go against the grain
And cling to something
So far from right it drives them insane
But we continue in spite of the pain

Some lovers can't admit to their mistakes
And don't we know it
Each one of us is too stubborn to say
"Baby, I'm sorry we'll do it your way"

A wise man will quit when love breaks down
But we just keep going around and around

Right back in the fire again
Fools not knowing when to say when
Everytime we say that our love should retire
That's when we jump back in the fire

Some people never see things eye to eye
And don't we show it
Nobody disagrees more than we do
But each time I wanna say "Baby I'm through"

I know I'm not, I'll never win
How would I get you from under my skin

Right back in the fire again
Fools not knowing when to say when
Everytime we say that our love should retire
That's when we jump back in the fire

Back in the fire
Back in the fire

Back in the fire
Back in the fire

Back in the fire
Back in the fire

Back in the fire
Back in the fire
