

Whole Heart

Brandon Heath

Well I called Your name a long time ago
And You sprung a well from a heart of stone
But I was careful then what I let You see
Only thought You wanted the best of me

The less I trust You the less I grow
The more You love me the more I know
I don't have to be afraid to show
All of me, all of me

Where there's hurtin'
You show me what healing can do
Where there's hatred
You show me how kindness can move

Where there's fear deep inside
I won't run, I won't hide
I'll give You all of me
So that You can see every broken piece

And open up my
(Whole heart, whole heart)
And love You with my
(My whole heart, whole heart)
My whole heart

So I'm ready now, gonna let You in
All the way to the scars beneath my skin
And You don't look away 'cause You understand
And You hold my heart with a gentle hand

Where there's hurting
You show me what healing can do
Where there's hatred
You show me how kindness can move

Where there's fear deep inside
I won't run, I won't hide
I'll give You all of me
So that You can see every broken piece

And open up my
(Whole heart, whole heart)
And love You with my
(My whole heart, whole heart)
My whole heart

The less I trust You the less I grow
The more You love me the more I know
I don't have to be afraid to show
All of me, all of me

Where there's hurting, oh-oh
Where there's sorrow and shame
Enter into the pain

Where there's hurting

You show me what healing can do
Where there's hatred
You show me how kindness can move

Where there's fear deep inside
I won't run, I won't hide
I'll give You all of me
So that You can see every broken piece

And open up my
(Whole heart, whole heart)
And love You with my
(My whole heart, whole heart)
I love you with my whole heart

(I love you with my)
My whole heart
