

You'll Find Love Again

Brandon Heath

Are you still fighting a war or giving up?
'Cause you can't fight anymore
Everyone says that you're brave
But you don't know what for

All is not lost
Hope is not lost
You are not lost, oh no

You'll find love again
You'll find love again
No matter what you've seen or done or where you've been
You'll find love, you'll find love all over again
All over again, all over again

I won't pretend to know your pain
I know your heart just because I know your name
And I won't say there won't be scars
But I can say you will never be the same

All is not lost
Faith is not lost
You are not lost
Do you believe me?

You'll find love again
You'll find love again
No matter what you've seen or done or where you've been
You'll find love, you'll find love all over again
All over again, all over again

I know you're weary and you're weak

Don't wanna find the words to speak
All you have to do is seek
You'll find love again

Today you don't know where to start
But it won't always be this hard
Just when you've let down your guard
You'll find love again
So lift your eyes and lift your head
You're wounded bad but you're not dead
It's every word He ever said

You'll find love again
Right where it's always been Waiting like a long lost friend
Waiting there to take you in
You'll find love again

You'll find love again
You'll find love again
(You'll find it)
No matter what you've seen or done or where you've been (It'll find you)
You'll find love, you'll find love (oh, you'll find love again) all over aga in

All over again, all over again

(You'll find love again)

All over again, all over again, al over again

(You'll find love)