

Just Like the Moon

Brett Dennen

I believe that you were born during an eclipse and the stars named you moon child Then you come you rise into my sky you stepped in front of my sun and it makes the whole world dark.

And you light up the night
just like the moon
just like the moon you light up the night
and sometimes,
sometimes I only get a sliver of ya
but I'm hoping
I'm hoping for a full moon tonight.

Laid back and I'm restless in the daytime and I'm chased by these shadows oh thay're haunting me then you come with nighttimes' wooly blanket and you wrap me like a child who's been in the rain too long.

just like the moon just like the moon you light up the night
and sometimes
sometimes I only get a sliver of ya
but I'm hoping
I'm hoping for a full moon tonight.

Oh I've chased the moon you know I've tried and each time I tried each time I failed and each time I get so down on myself and I can't stand this pace of a snail while the rest of the world...

You know I, I know I know I know that I can probably never be the same cause you light up the night

just like the moon
just like the moon you light up the night
and sometimes
sometimes I only get a sliver of ya
but I'm hoping

and in the night
I can feel you love light shinning bright falling down on me like autumn leaves
and in the night
I can see you shinning bright tell me how am I supposed to fall asleep
and in the night
I can see your love light shinning bright falling down on me like autumn leaves

I can see you shinning bright
tell me how am I supposed to fall asleep.
