A night of awkward silence leaves a swelling in my head So this will be the last time that I try burning at both ends A story believable, but I know you all to well You can say you don't remember, maybe this will ring a bell Solo artist figurines, and centerfolds in magazines An alibi that let you down, offended to say the least Well, I saw how you faked it, and you never made it So let's start your little game, cause I've already played

So you think you know, but you don't
I know you think you know but you don't
We are but puppets built to sing, led by amatures with strings I'm not waiting
They did it again, I knew it was them
It's just another disaster I won't be part of

The most insulting words that I've heard

From the lips of who I can't hurt

But the beauty of the twist, is I just can't get enough of this

So you better watch what you say Cause you're the same way It's not like you to let me have my way

We'll do this on our own

So you think you know, but you don't I know you think you know but you don't We are but puppets built to sing, led by amatures with strings I'm not waiting They did it again, I knew it was them It's just another disaster I won't be part of

Why don't you come out and say it? (just say it) I know you want to

"Dance, puppet!! Dance, puppet!! Dance puppet!! DANCE!!"

We'll do this on our own