

Lauren's Lullaby

Broken Iris

I woke up this morning
Skin soaked in sun rays
Reached over to hold you
Then light dimmed down
On where your scent remains

The minute I found myself alone
The second I started to cry

Stepped into the shower
My skin was soaked in warm, warm water
Felt the mist of your skin
Then you opened your blessed brown eyes
And streams of candlelight outline your body
But the mirror shows just one silhouette

The minute I found myself alone
the second I started to cry
Love, will you find your way home?
And turn this pain into a lullaby
And turn this pain into a lullaby

The minute you walk through my door
My heart fell to the floor
You found your way home
Now my soul is restored
You turn my thought into a lullaby
You turn our love into a lullaby

Lu-lu-lu-lullaby
Lu-lu-lu-lullaby
Lu-lu-lu-lullaby
Lu-lu-lu-lullaby

Lu-lu-lu-lullaby
Lu-lu-lu-lullaby
Lu-lu-lu-lullaby
Lu-lu-lu-lullaby